Co-Sell With Partners

The Play: Leverage partner intelligence and relationships to accelerate your existing pipeline and increase your win rates.

How to do it:

- Put partner data in the hands of sellers (SFDC, dashboards, etc)
- Customize messaging using context from ecosystem/partners (tech stack, buyers, procurement).
- Leverage partners for backchannel endorsements. Rep to rep alignment.

The screenshot displays the Crossbeam mobile application interface. At the top, the Crossbeam logo is on the left, and 'Open in app' and a settings gear icon are on the right. Below the header is a search bar with the placeholder text 'Search partner insights' and a 'Sort' dropdown menu. A dark blue callout box with the text 'Request Introduction' points to the 'Message' button of the first partner card.

The main content area lists three partner cards:

- Farro Farm: Features a blue icon with a white 'F' and a star. Below the name is an orange star icon and the word 'Customers'. To the right are 'Details' and 'Message' buttons. Below the card are tags: 'EMEA Customers', 'EMEA Customers Jetblue', '+3 more', and three '# Tech Partner' tags with '+2 more'.

The Census Play:

- Look up in-flight deals in Crossbeam / Salesforce.
- Contacts those technology partners and their reps to gather information like:
  - How does that prospect buy software?
  - What was the procurement process like?
  - How did you approach pricing negotiations?
  - Can you share any information about your experience that might help us navigate this deal?

“These kinds of conversations give us the intel to avoid hurdles in the sales process. The only people who have that information are the ones who’ve experienced the pain, which are people who have sold products to that organization before.”

Sylvain Giuliani,
Head of Growth and Operations at Census

The Fivetran Play:

- Provide sellers and their managers with zero-click visibility into partner overlaps right inside of the Account and Opportunity detail pages inside of Salesforce.
- Create reports (lists) that overlap with pipeline stages.

Examples from Fivetran:

- My Accounts vs Modern Data Stack Partner Customers
- My Accounts vs Modern Data Stack Partner Opportunities
- My Opportunities vs Modern Data Stack Partner Customers
- My Opportunities vs Modern Data Stack Partner Opportunities
- My Opportunities vs System Integrator Partner Opportunities
- My Opportunities vs System Integrator Partner Customers

“We really are a true full stack consumer of ELG strategies. We do it all, from Sales to CS and everywhere in between. But nothing happens if we don’t get the data into the hands of our customer-facing teams.”

Michael Bull
Director of Strategic Alliances, Fivetran

Fill Your Funnel with Ecosystem Qualified Leads (EQLs)

The Play: Pull EQL “needles” out of your the ideal customer haystack

How to do it:

- Map prospects to partners.
- Create rich, highly contextualized lead lists.
- Launch specific sales and marketing campaigns on a list-by-list of company-by-company basis.
- Tap partner team to do pipeline review with partner data.

Drive NRR With Tech Partners

The Play: Create new use cases for existing customers, increasing retention and creating expansion opportunities.

How to do it:

- Generate list of shared customers. Run campaigns to reach exact audience. Market integrations, joint use case w/ partners.
- Arm CSM team with tech stack data for custom expansion plays.

The screenshot shows a CRM dashboard with a grid of customer overlap data. The columns represent 'Your Partner' categories: Customers, Open Opportunities, and Prospects. The rows represent 'You' categories: Customers, Open Opportunities, and Prospects. A callout box highlights the 710 Overlaps between 'You' Customers and 'Your Partner' Customers.

Choosing the right partners

The play: Check partner TAM, close rates, overlapping customer size and more.

How to do it:

- Compare Customer lists and get your TAM.
- Conduct Win/Loss analyses to calculate sales velocity metrics on deals that are partner-sourced vs no partner involvement.
- Send data to data warehouse, see which partners have sourced the most deals / are reciprocating.

The screenshot displays a CRM dashboard with a grid of customer overlap data. The grid compares 'You' (rows) and 'Your Partner' (columns) across three categories: Customers, Open Opportunities, and Prospects. The data is as follows:

	(You)	(Your Partner)
Customers	710 Overlaps	389 Overlaps
Open Opportunities	149 Overlaps	73 Overlaps
Prospects	617 Overlaps	349 Overlaps

The '710 Overlaps' cell for Customers is highlighted with a white callout box.

PROCORE

Sending data to ELG + Salesforce + Data warehouse + Tableau

“The cool thing about it is not just one of those sales velocity metrics improves and then the equation gets better. [Customers are] more confident in what they're purchasing ... The average sales prices are higher, and the win rates are higher, as well, because of that confidence.”

Kris Lengieza,
VP of Global Partnerships & Alliances
at Procore Technologies

Who is the best partner?

- Partner A is a huge public company with a big brand
- Partner B is small startup who have networked their way to relationships with your C-Suite
- Partner C is an under-the-radar private company

INTERCOM

“This framework is typically the entry point for account mapping data for our team as it helps us size existing and potential future opportunities with our app partners.”

Catherine Brodigan,
Senior Manager of Global
Partnerships for Intercom

Operationalizing ELG

Operationalize ELG

- Tooling. Get the partner data and tooling house in order.
- Data. Democratize the data and optimize everyone's time.
- Buy-In. Perpetual enablement and buy-in work.
- Chain Reaction. At the center, a chain reaction of scalable systems and processes is the engine that makes ELG work inside of a sales organization.

braze

“Everything is in our sales CRM and our sellers and sales leaders have access to it. We’ve flipped the model on its head, given sellers control of the process, and now they engage [the partnerships team] when they need us — not the other way around.”

Dave Goldstein,
VP of Global Solutions Alliances
at Braze
